

It's not just coffee
it's STARBUGS

WELCOME

However, despite being head-over-heels for Starbucks, trying to put your latte love into actual words is a struggle. You've tried explaining the overwhelming feeling of joy you get with every single sip, but you always come up short. Enter, these Starbucks quotes. They get where you're coming from, and will perfectly complement a picture, reaction video, or mood board of your favorite drinks.

There's so much to be said about the amazing benefits of drinking coffee on a Tuesday morning. "Coffee and chocolate—the inventor of mocha should be sainted."—Cherise Sinclair, Hour of the Lion You know you're going to get it, but it's going to be rough. "A day without coffee is... just kidding, I have no idea."

"On the broad spectrum of solitude, I lean toward the extreme end: I work alone, as well as live alone, so I can pass an entire day without uttering so much as a hello to another human being. Sometimes a day's conversation consists of only five words, uttered at the local Starbucks: 'Large coffee with milk, please.'"

Starbucks was founded around the experience and the environment of their stores. Starbucks was about a space with comfortable chairs, lots of power outlets, tables and desks at which we could work and the option to spend as much time in their stores as we wanted without any pressure to buy. Although it is true that there is suffering in the world, but in the moments when the sun shines on a winter sky, when the birds sing together, or the streams flow forevermore, and the flowers bloom their colorful faces, life is beautiful.
